FLOWTECH SPONSORSHIP ENJOYS PYE WINNING THE DOUBLE AT CASTLE COMBE

Flowtech has geared up its Corporate Branding Programme by teaming up with the Jamun prepared Mygale car to sponsor the Australian driver Scott Pye.

Following his dominant ninth-round win of the British Formula Ford Championship, Flowtech's Scott Pye was out to deliver more of the same at the Castle Combe circuit in Wiltshire.

Both pole man Pye and teammate Josh Hill, who started alongside, made excellent getaways to establish a 1-2. Pye and Hill then quickly distanced themselves from the pack, with Scott slowly pulling a gap to control the race to the chequered flag from the World Champion's son.

Scott's manager, ex Formula One driver and Australian Business member Perry McCarthy said 'This was yet another great drive. Scotty is on fire and he just continues to impress me. I am working hard on Scott's career but I have to say that it's a real pleasure and I am having so much fun being at the races and seeing an exceptional talent shine out'.

Sean Fennon, CEO, Flowtech Group Ltd, commented, 'Based on the potential Scott showed in the 2009 season, we believe that 2010 will be an even more successful period and are delighted to be associated with a dedicated driver who reflects our own company's ethos towards quality and enthusiasm'.

Scott Pye has won 6 out of 10 British Championship starts in 2010 and will be back in action with Flowtech support, looking for two more wins at the Rockingham Speedway across the weekend of July 17 and 18.
